

Location

Cooroy is a hidden jewel located in the Noosa Hinterland region of South East Queensland, 90 minutes north of Brisbane, 20 minutes from Noosa and close to many Sunshine Coast destinations.

First settled in the 1880's as a timber milling town, Cooroy is now the main hub of the Hinterland region of Noosa Shire. The town has a population of over 2,000 residents, with a similar number in the surrounding area.

Maroochydore Airport services flights from all Australian capital cities with connections available from most regional centres as well. Maroochydore Airport is 30 minutes away, and Brisbane Airport, approximately 90 minutes by car. Cooroy also has direct rail access south to Brisbane and north to Cairns.

The climate is sub-tropical with average temperatures of 21C to 29C in summer, and 11C to 22C in winter. Average rainfall is about 1695mm per annum, with most falling in the warmer months of December through to April.
